If you're looking through these pages
For the wisdom of the Sages
You can stop right where you are—you'll never find it.

We have tried to catch the spirit
Of the school—if we came near it
We are glad; and where we failed we hope you won't mind it.

ROLOGUE

May this book, in after years, bring forth a
reminiscent smile,
As you float with it down Memory's deep
wide stream,
Permitting you your troubles to forget a little while,
As you anchor in the harbor of a dream.

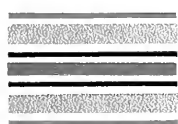

For gone, but not forgotten, is the year of '34.
Unknown the things the coming years may hold,
And it forms one of the links in Life's great chain for you and more,
Though baser metals gleam amongst its gold.

Our thanks to those who have helped us, the
others we forgive,
The Lord said "Love your neighbor," and we do.
Herein we've tried to put the things we love,
and would have live,
The rest we'll soon forget—and so will you.

D E D I C A

96 years have passed since the doors of what is now the Medical College of Virginia were opened to the first class—years in which a variety of vicissitudes beset the institution—years in which the struggle for existence was extremely hard. War and poverty struck an almost overwhelming blow at the very beginning, and poverty lingered. However dark, though, a narrative of the school's struggles, the story of its friends and their efforts toward the realization of an early dream is a record of the shining quality of which we are continually aware. We recognize no degree in their friendship. We single no one for praise or eulogy; we praise alike THE DOCTOR, THE DENTIST, THE PHARMACIST, THE NURSE—each useful, each indispensable, all with a like purpose, striving toward the same end. There are, and have been, many who have subscribed to the greatness that has become the Medical College of Virginia. ~ ~ ~ TO THESE and THOSE we dedicate this book.

IN PRESENT

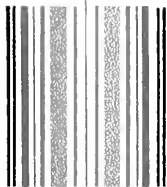

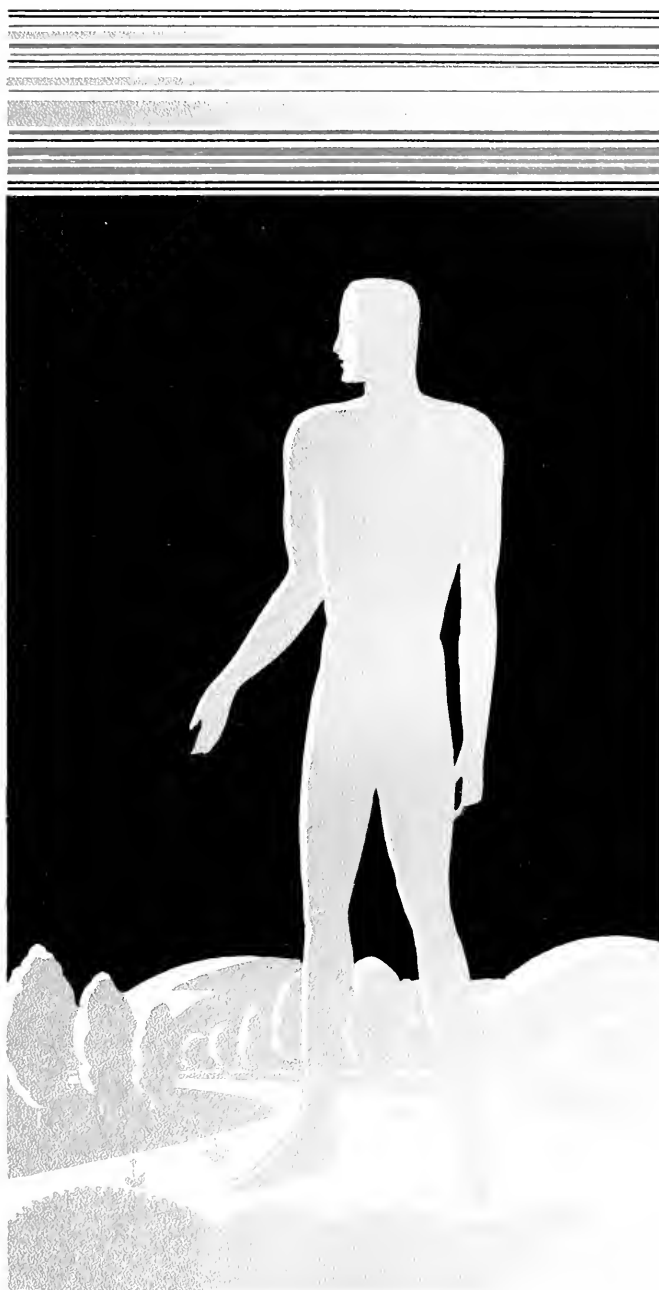

FRANCES HELEN ZEIGLER

Because we have in you a SINCERE FRIEND,
who has proved herself loyal, resourceful,
courageous, and a spiritual, as well as a mental inspiration to her associates among members of the student body and officials of the school,

WE HONOR YOU

Standing on a higher plain,
Let down their hands to us below.
And pull us up to them—so slow.*

MEDICAL COLLEGE OF VIRGINIA

A department of Hampden-Sydney College from 1838 to 1854, an independent organization from 1854 to 1860, a State institution since 1860, enlarged and enriched by consolidation with the University College of Medicine and Memorial Hospital in 1913—this in a word is the history of the Medical College of Virginia.

From the first, medicine and pharmacy were taught; then pharmacy emerged as a separate course for pharmacists. During the last decade of the last century, dentistry and pharmacy were made separate schools, followed by nursing during the first quarter of the new century. From the start, teaching medicine at the bedside with patients housed within the institution was the practice. This was probably a unique distinction in those early days. In 1860, the college got its first separately organized hospital, and in 1867 an out-patient department was opened. This early emphasis upon clinical facilities and teaching of a modern sort accounts no doubt for the widely established reputation of the college for superior instruction in clinical subjects.

Dr. Augustus L. Warner, first dean of the faculty and professor of surgery and surgical anatomy, was perhaps the leading spirit in the effort which led to the opening of the college in the fall of 1838. Associated with him were Dr. John Cullen in medicine, Dr. R. L. Bohannon in obstetrics, gynecology and pediatrics, Dr. Lewis W. Chamberlayne in materia medica and therapeutics, Dr. Socrates Maupin in chemistry and pharmacy, Dr. Thomas Johnson in anatomy and physiology, and Dr. Robert Munford as demonstrator of anatomy. This first faculty was a pio-

THE MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

Chief among subsequent buildings were the college infirmary, later Old Dominion Hospital, 1860, replaced by Saint Philip's Hospital, 1920; laboratory building, 1896, replaced by Dooley Hospital, 1920; McGuire Hall and Old Virginia Hospital, acquired by consolidation with the University College of Medicine, 1913; Memorial Hospital, completed in 1903, acquired by the college, 1913; Cabaniss Hall, 1928; Saint Philip Dormitory, 1931, and the library, 1932. Sufficient land is owned on which to erect other important buildings as soon as practicable.

In its first ninety-three years, the college sent out 5,864 graduates, 3,958 in medicine, 615 in dentistry, 764 in pharmacy, and 527 in nursing. These are distributed throughout the nation and many foreign countries. Many of these have won distinction in their respective fields.

The plant of the college is approximately one-half completed. A new out-patient department and laboratory building, a central heating plant, a new hospital for white patients adjoining the out-patient department, a dental school building, general remodelling of the incomplete top floor of McGuire Hall for experimental surgery with animals and other activities, and the fireproofing of the Egyptian Building as a museum, are with other future projects. Their fulfillment will depend upon better financial conditions and the continued support of loyal, generous friends and appropriations by the State. When this plant has been completed, the number in the student body will probably be less even than at present, including a fellowship system in graduate education, the emphasis in all schools and departments to be placed upon quality and not quantity.

neering group. To perpetuate their memory, it has been suggested that the room in the library used for meetings of the faculty and the Board of Visitors be dedicated to them and designated as the "Founders' Room." There appropriate portraits and other articles of interest related to the first faculty can well be housed.

The first college building, used both for laboratories and patients, was the remodelled old Union Hotel located at Nineteenth and Main Streets. On a lot provided at the expense of the city, the Egyptian Building, partly financed by loans from the State, was completed for occupancy in the fall of 1845. The architect was Thomas S. Stewart of Philadelphia, who had previously designed Saint Paul's Episcopal Church in Richmond.

The Stork

(With apologies to Poe.)

Once upon a midnight dreary,
While I wandered weak and weary,
O'er many a lone and darksome
Hill and dale of Jackson Ward—
Wandered, stumbled, blindly roaming,
Suddenly there came a moaning,
As of someone loudly groaning,
Loudly calling on the Lord.
"Tis the number we've been hunting
O'er all of Jackson Ward."
Muttered I, "And praise the Lord."

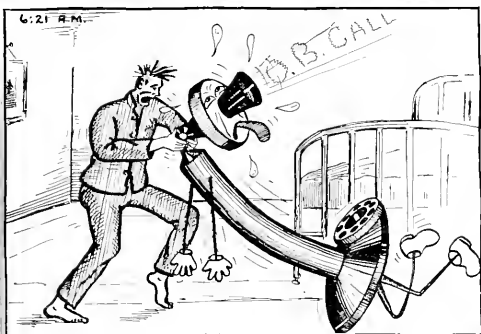

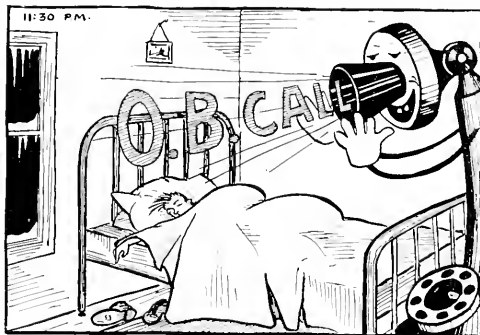

Ah, distinctly I remember,
It was in the bleak December,
And the wind shook every timber
From the ceiling to the floor.
Dim and chill the starlight glittered
On the murky snow belittered
With the bones of fowls that fluttered
Once behind that creaking door.
—Formerly in many hen coops,
Hencoops of the rich and poor,—
Pilfered thence forevermore.

Waiting not a moment longer,
Lest the moaning night wind stronger
Blowing, waft us past our number
Onto night's Cimmerian shore;
Brooked we no delay in rapping,
Entered straightway without tapping,
Found a maiden,—no, not napping,—
Nearly nude upon the floor.
And the granny, gruesome, withered,
Muttered, "Lou, hear dozen some more."
Quoth the maiden, "Nevermore."

Drop a little while the curtain
On a scene there's naught of mirth in,
While the maiden shrieked, "I am certain,
Doctor, dear, there must be four."
Why now with the groans decreasing,
Do the noises, never ceasing,
Linger with a note more pleasing,
But as lusty as before?
Dare we raise again the curtain,
Hear the maid, perspiring, sore,
Breathe again that "Nevermore."

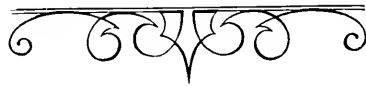

Strangely she appears much smaller,
And a pinkish midnight brawler,
Kicking, crying, castor-oiler,
Raised much hell as said before.
"Maiden," said I as we parted,
"Tis a numerous tribe you've started,
Ere four seasons have departed
You'll have added just one more."
And the maid as if her soul in
That one word she did outpour,
Whispered hoarsely, "Nevermore."

But the maiden, ever sipping,
Still is sipping, still is sipping,
From the purple urn of Cupid
On youth's happy golden shore,
And her eyes have all the seeming
Of a dusky devil's dreaming,
And the lamplight on them beaming
Makes them sparkle as of yore.
And I know full well that tomorrow
She'll forget that NEVERMORE,
And call doctors,—evermore.

The Skull

*On a dusty old shelf, in Dr. Osterud's small room,
Where many a freshman has gone to his doom,
Is an ugly old skull, full of ugly old lumps,
Of sutures, foramens, and fissures, and bumps.*

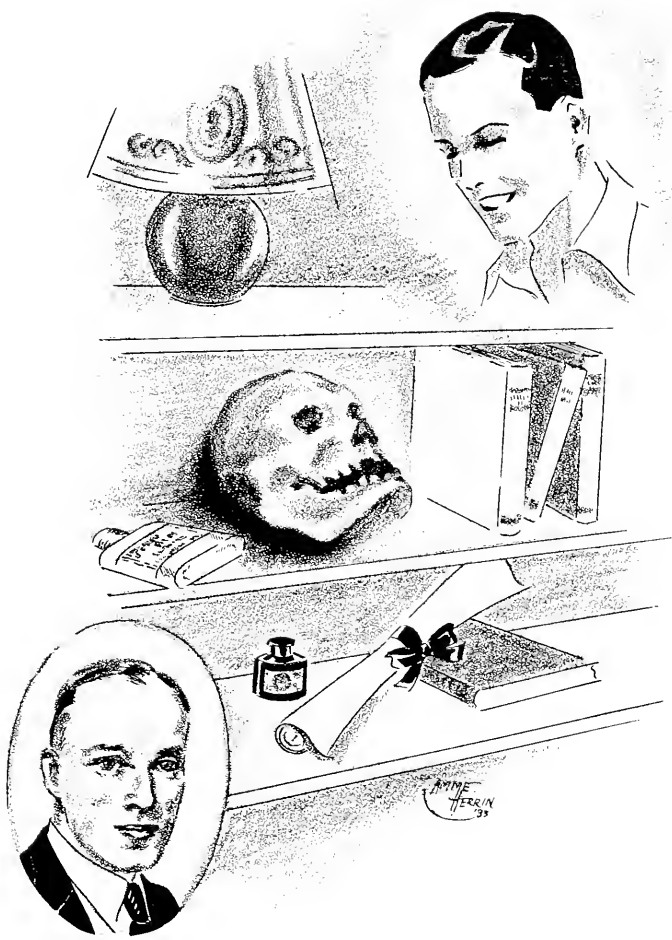

*There it sits—just a worm-eaten mass of old bone,
Neglected, forgotten, uncared-for, alone,
There is nothing to tell from whose body it came,
No markings, no history, not even a name.*

*Where now are the locks of luxuriant hair
That once hung 'round that forehead, so barren and bare?
Where now are the eyes that once lovingly shone
As they looked into others as bright as their own?*

*Where now are the lips that once lovingly clung
To others as red? Where the songs that they sung?
Nothing left in their place but long dull, yellow teeth,
And the low-hanging jaw that swings idly beneath.*

*Who would think that there once dwelt a wonderful brain
That knew pleasure and happiness, sorrow and pain,
Or that others once loved it—how odd it all seems,
That it once pressed a pillow made light by sweet dreams.*

*All gone; gone and forgotten, like last winter's snows,
Or the perfume and beauty of last summer's rose,
And now, on the shelf in Anatomy Hall,
Is a must old, dusty old skull—and that's all.*

*When the Sultan of Turkey goes out for a ride
With his sleek horses tossing their heads in their pride,
With a dozen gold medals hung over his chest,
'Till he shines like the sun as it sinks in the west,
His subjects bow down 'till their heads hit the ground,
And never a whisper, a smile, or a sound
Is seen or is heard 'till he passes from view;
He thinks he is good—well, perhaps you would, too.*

*When the good Queen of Sheba decided that she Would go and see Sol to determine if he
Was really as wise as her messengers said,
She—well, to be brief, Queenie sure knocked them dead!
With her camels, and donkeys, and rubies, and pearls,
Her warlike young men, and her vamp-like young girls,
She had all of the other dames backed off the map,
And would make any movie queen look like a sap.*

*When President Roosevelt goes out for a walk
He smiles to himself when he hears people talk,
And says: "There he goes! That's Old Franklin himself!"
Why, he thinks he knocks everything else off the shelf,
And as King George, ensconced in his sky-blue Rolls-Royce,
Bowls along, he exclaims: "Take your pick—I'm the choice."
Why Pollard, dressed up in his gloves, cane, and hat,
Can't help but remark to himself, "I'm a cat!"*

*They're all good but they fall with a horrible thud
When compared with His Majesty, Mortley F. Rudd,
As he stalks through the lab, in majestic might,
Making every last pharmacist shiver in fright;
How they tremble in fear, as they see him go by,
With a thousand bright lights beaming out of each eye!
With what quavering voices they answer the roll
Like a cry for relief from a long-dead, lost soul!*

*With his hair combed straight back from his bright, shining pate,
He is Monarch Supreme of his Pharmacal State!
No man ever has dared disobey his command,
For he holds the whole works in the palm of his hand,
He is loved for the men he has taught us to be,
For the truths he has taught us to search for, and see;
He has made us real men by the might of his rule—
This man, Rudd, who is dean of our Pharmacy School!*

The Nurse and Her Prayer

*The world grows better year by year
Because some nurse in her little sphere
Puts on her apron and laughs and sings
And keeps on doing the same old things.*

*Taking the temperatures, giving the pills
To remedy mankind's numberless ills;
Feeding the baby; answering the bells;
Being polite with a heart that rebels.*

*Longing for home, and all the while
Wearing the same old professional smile;
Blessing the newborn babies' first breath;
Closing the eyes that are still in death.*

*Taking the blame for the doctor's mistakes;
(Oh, dear, what a lot of patience it takes!)
Going off duty at seven o'clock,
Tired, discouraged, just ready to drop.*

*But called back on "special" at seven-fifteen,
With woe in her heart, but it must not be seen.
Morning and evening, noon and night,
Just doing it over and hoping it's right.*

*When we lay down our caps and cross the bar,
Oh, Lord, will you give us just one little star,
To wear in our uniform caps so new,
In that City above where the Head Nurse is You?—Amen.*

The Way of An Impulse

*They say that the paths through the cord to the brain
Are definite, evident, marked out, and plain,
And that impulses coming from head or from toe
Without hesitation know just where to go.*

*Anatomists say so, and we should believe,
For good men like Osterud don't try to deceive,
But I'm sure that at times they got mixed up real bad,
Though to say so may make Doctor Tucker real mad.*

*If you look in the books you will see that they say
It is only a very short, well-defined way
From the nerve endings having their tips in the lips
To their home in the brain—uneventful, short trips.*

*They teach it that way, but I know it's not right,
For in kissing a pretty young lady last night
I discovered some things that an impulse can do,
Just listen, and I'll try to tell you a few.*

*I kissed her—not long, just a short, gentle peck,
And the impulse went straight to the back of my neck.
Then it seemed undecided, and wandered around
For a second, and then started not up, but down.*

*It went with a rush to the top of my heart,
And was there unexplainably shattered apart,
And each little part took a different course,
And increasing the distance just doubled the force.*

*Some got caught in the spaces that fill up my chest,
And shook all the top buttons off of my vest;
Others traveled on down, and with terrible shocks,
Shook my garters both loose from their clasps on my socks.*

*My innominate artery quivered and roared,
As another small piece o'er its intima poured,
And, this artery lying right close to a vein,
It jumped to the latter, and then back again.*

*And each separate piece, all with different tones,
Wandered over my viscera, muscles, and bones,
Until every last bit of this body of mine
Resembled the board of a telephone line.*

The Way of An Impulse

*Then each piece returned, on its own special track,
And they all seemed to meet in the small of my back,
Go up the posterior tract of my spine,
To where they belonged in this cortex of mine.*

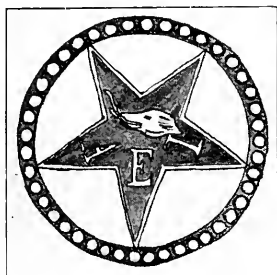

*Just try this yourself some night, out in the park,
Or in some nice parlor that's cozy and dark,
And I'm certain that you, just as I did, will find
That impulses, like men, are at times rather blind.*

*You can tell us apart by the pins on our coat,
Or the way that we work to gain brothers a vote.
By the way we clasp hands, for we guard every grip—
Or the pass-word secreted behind every lip.*

ACTIVITIES

Vita Laborem Fiat

*Life's span is but a day,
And Time flies quickly on:
Live while yet you may—
Let no Tomorrow dawn,
Pass, and whose descending Sun
Looks not on goals attained
Nor laurel wreaths unwon—
Life's joys can never ease the pain
Of vain Regrets. Opportunity's nod
Is given only once to Man—
Remember th' impending Future
Brings Eternity and God!*

INTRODUCTION TO ACTIVITIES

THE Spirit of M. C. V. is handed down from year to year in great measure through the efforts of our various organizations. Unknowingly they intensify our fellowship and our loyalty to our school.

It is natural that many of our intimate acquaintanceships are formed with the men of our classes and class section because we are thrown with them constantly. Social organizations provide opportunities to widen friendship circles, and they play leading parts in brightening our years as students at M. C. V. M. C. V. draws most of her men from the two Virginias, and being men of congenial spirit it is only natural that the fine, gay sets of formal dances sponsored by the Cotillion and German Clubs have become traditional towards breaking the monotony of our class room and routine work. Besides these dances, which fall just before the holiday periods throughout the year, we have the fraternity dances and smokers, both formal and informal, which serve the students as constant opportunities for relaxation. Other than our dancing organizations, those gifted with various talents find pleasure in the works of other organizations, such as the Revelers, the Y. M. C. A., the Publications, and all of the other units making towards a greater Medical College of Virginia.

The Medical College of Virginia Student Council is composed of the student body president and other officers so distributed and so selected that every class in every school has the same number of representatives (each having one member on the executive council and one member on the honor council. These officials are selected annually).

The purpose of the student council is "To promote among the students a loyalty to the ideals of the college; to promote a spirit of cooperation among the various schools and departments of the college; and to give the college a definite and concrete basis upon which a representative form of student government may be built and maintained."

PETE PASTORE

THE 1934 X-RAY

PETE N. PASTORE
Editor-in-Chief

The staff of the 1934 X-RAY presents this volume to you. Its contents have been made possible because of your presence and activity; to its composition we have given the best that is in us; we earnestly hope, and are sure, that you will appreciate the effort that has gone into it.

There is necessarily a certain similarity in all college annuals, but in this edition of the X-RAY the staff has endeavored to produce a volume differing from established forms as much as consistency permitted.

We take this opportunity of expressing our deepest appreciation and gratitude to those few without whose co-operation our work would have been infinitely more difficult. To them we owe more than mere thanks for their capable assistance and pertinent suggestions, which were invaluable.

The reading of this book is easy, but as you read it is our wish that you will see, between the lines, the numerous complications which the preparation of such a comprehensive volume entailed. If we have pleasantly overcome most of them, we are pleased; the defects which you can find you will charitably bury in appreciation of the better points.

THE 1934 SKULL AND BONES

DAVID JACOBSON
Editor-in-Chief

Much of The Skull and Bones success was due to the untiring efforts of a skilful staff. It was through these men that the routine work of the paper was effected, the general direction being in the hands of Editor Jacobson.

The financial success of the paper for the past year has been largely due to the keen business acumen and insight of Al Scarborough, the Business Manager. The advertisements for the paper were of the most modern-up-to-date type.

It is, then, with a feeling of satisfaction that the staff completes one of its most successful years, and it wishes to express its appreciation to all those who co-operated with it to bring the 1933-34 session to a highly satisfactory close.

Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. of the Medical College of Virginia was organized during the school year of 1916-1917 by a group of faculty and students who had the moral welfare of the college at heart. Mr. Phillip B. Trigg of Tennessee was then selected as the first full-time secretary. By special arrangement the association, cooperating with the Central Y. M. C. A. of Richmond, is allowed a special rate membership for M. C. V. students. This entitles the student members all the "Y" privileges.

At present Mr. Jonah Larrick, better known to the students as "father," is the General Secretary of the "Y," having served in this capacity nine years. With Jonah at the helm the organization has definitely become a permanent indispensable unit of our college and student life.

ANNUAL ATHLETIC BANQUET, 1933

The Doctor

*"New words have sprung up from the ashes of the old;
New customs, newer thoughts and new born men
Take form and breathe: Spring from decaying clay:
Live their petty lives, and, to the Clod from which they sprung
Return. Yet thru it all stretches the unending chain
Of Human Ills, and, there, as now, into the ghostly Past
The Doctor watches patiently the sick: Lending sympathy
From a kindly heart, and sleeplessly, thru weary hours,
As a Vestal, guarding the little Flame of wearying clay
Flickering feebly in the Dawn of newer worlds.
Untiring, steadfast, vigilant—fighting hopefully to the End.
Rendering grudgingly to Death no unfought Claim."*

FEATURES

Dedicated to Our Fathers and Mothers

Parents

*They are left alone in the dear old home,
After so many years,
When the house was full of frolic and fun,
Of childish laughter and tears,
They are left alone, they two—once more
Beginning life over again,
Just as they did in the days of yore
Before they were nine or ten.*

*And the table is set for two these days;
The children went one by one
Away from home on their separate ways
When the childhood days were done,
How healthily hungry they used to be!
What romping they used to do!
And mother—for weeping—can hardly see
To set the table for two.*

*Ah, well—ah, well, tis the way of the world!
Children stay but a little while
And then into other scenes are whirled
Where other homes beguile;
But it matters not how far they roam
Their hearts are fond and true,
And there's never a home like the dear old home
Where parents wait for you.*

Apostrophe to the Skull

*"Decaying sanctuary crumbling to the Dust!
Throne room of the long departed Soul!
What vagaries of Virtue or of Luck,
Within your recent confines did you hold?"*

*"What conquest fought or lost or won;—
What o'er mastering love or burning hate,
Unspoken still, consumed itself to ash
Upon the altars of your erstwhile state?"*

*"Who knows, but, in these fast decaying walls
There once held sway the Superhuman Mind,
Which knew, thru it's mysterious conjuries,
The secret thoughts denied the Human Kind."*

*"What of visions fair and beautiful
Did these now sightless orbs desery;
What sordid human frailties came
Within the compass of the busy eye?"*

*"What falsehoods uttered then; what truths
Enunciated by the clamorous tongue,
That once within these silent caverns vast,
Unguarded and vociferously rung?"*

*"But, all these have fled. The secrets held
Imprisoned within your crumbling vaults,
Pass unlearned—were they so pregnant then
With potential charities or faults?"*

*"And then I'caried, Life passed on—the while Grim Death and Dissolution and Decay
Consumed the vibrant flesh and loosed
The shackled and imprisoned Soul astray!"*

*"Sic transit gloria mundi"—and so we all,
Cast from this weak, imperfect Flesh decay
And, are hurled into Eternity's myriad years,
Of which our little Life is but a Day."*

*"And thou are left alone, O, Skull!—Untenanted
Save by the squirming denizens of the sod—
A gruesome symbol of Man's transitory state,
And, mute evidence of the Omnipresent God!"*

Music

*The music measures all we shall remember,
Full speech of the organ in waning afternoons.
The music folds us in its mysteries,
And we are quiet, resting for the twilight coming soon.
These the things we shall remember
In other silver twilights: tread of feet
Over classroom thresholds, golden laughter,
Autumn afternoons, grass made smooth and neat,
Quiet study hours, and feasts and holidays,
Classes, plays, our joys and short-lived sorrows,
Games, and budding trees, gay music, stunts,
Chatter, friendship, hopes, dreams, partings, meetings;
Life and its tones and overtones and time:
The measure of the things we shall remember,
Full speech of the organ in waning afternoons.*

HONORARY

"Here in this niche upon the stairway will stand this bust of bronze; the living likeness of this great man, fashioned by the skilled hands of that brilliant anatomist—John W. Brodnax—an inspiration and an ideal for the generations of young men who climb with eager feet this stairway in the future."

[Extract from the presentation address at the unveiling of bronze bust of Dr. Hunter Holmes McGuire in the lobby of the Medical College of Virginia, December 20, 1922, By W. Lowndes Peple.]

Guest Table—Banquet given in honor of Dr. STUART MCGUIRE—January 15th, 1934. Arrows point to Dr. CLIFTON M. MILLER, Dr. STUART MCGUIRE and Dr. ROSHIER W. MILLER, who have completed forty years of faithful and generous service in connection with the Medical College of Virginia.

WHEN "HARVEY" GETS HIS PENCIL OUT

(With Regards to Rudyard)

When 'Omer smote 'is bloomin' lyre,
The other folks sat 'round and listened;
And as he told his tales of fire,
Old blood ran warm, and dull eyes glistened;
But Homer's most soul-stirring tales
Are far surpassed, without a doubt,
For pure excitement, weeps, and wails,
When "Harvey" gets his pencil out,

When Caesar crossed the Rubicon,
With all his armies vast assembled,
The whole world tied its armor on,
And in suspense all peoples trembled;
But never did they know the fear
That puts all mind, and brains, to rout,
We knew, when the clock drew near,
When "Harvey" got his pencil out.

For there we sat, each on his stool,
While Doctor "H. B." called the roll,
And he the weather e'er so cool,
Each seat held up a burning soul;
The roll complete, he'd tilt his head
And amidst the silence of a pin fall,
We would wait, with brains all dead
While he decided who to call.

And O! the moments of suspense
While "Harvey" slowly turned the pages,
The little seconds stretched immense
Into great long, unheard-of ages,
Then he would take a big, long breath,
As deep, it seemed, as the flowing tide,
And, with the whole class scared to death,
Would pick out some poor gent to ride.

And how he rode us, every one,
'Till every bit of our gray matter
Sizzled and shimmered like the sun,
So we could hear the neurons spatter;
For question after question came,
And lucky was the man who knew them;
No two were ever just the same,
His problems, few could ever do them.

Day after day, week after week,
We made the grade, and stood the gaff,
And though at times too scared to speak,
We never, never failed to laugh
When "Harvey" rode some other guy—
How we'd enjoy the poor guy's sorrow,
The while we prayed to Him on High
That we might be spared 'til tomorrow.

But when at last the course was done,
The last dog dead, the last cat killed,
We'd had a lot of wholesome fun,
With love for him our hearts were filled,
We wouldn't ride that road again
For all the money from a golden leg,
But Lord, when you are making men,
Please make some more like "Harvey" Haag.

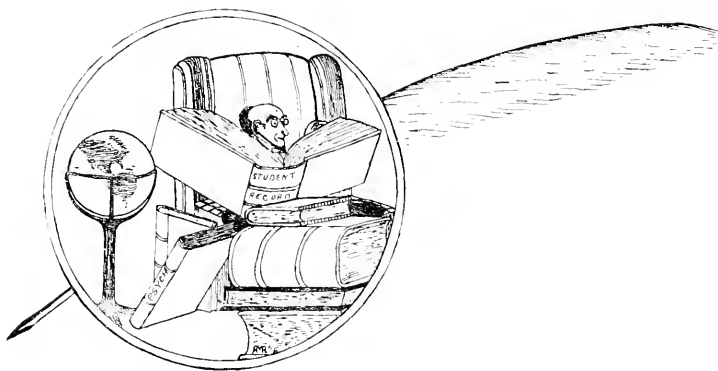

"MAC"

*He hides behind the office doors,
Or stalks along the halls,
And every time his firearm roars,
Another student falls.*

*And there's only one protection
From the gun's unerring flash,
And that, by heck, is to sign a check,
And hand "Old Mac" the cash.*

A dense, black and white collage of numerous vintage photographs, likely from the mid-20th century. The photos are overlapping and tilted, creating a dynamic, nostalgic visual. The subjects are primarily people in various settings: portraits of individuals, group shots of friends or families, and candid moments. The clothing and backgrounds suggest a mid-century context, with men in suits and hats, and women in dresses and coats. The collage is a rich tapestry of memories, capturing a wide range of human experiences from formal portraits to casual snapshots.

THE CROSSRAY

MEDICINE
SENIOR CLASS

There was in the nineteen hundredth and thirtieth year of our Lord, in the summer of the same year, a gathering of elderly souls in the lower strata of the underworld. Before the gathering was spread a long card-table, and there was much mirth and joy making when the past record of such men as Siersema, Montgomery and Oden were read. There were many a man with much gnashing of teeth and tearing of hair among those present, when the names of Crook, Chewning Bates and Pastore broke the silence. But there was a man, the name of whose surname was "Mac," who was well placed within himself for having enrolled such a likely bunch of fresh recruits. He was a sturdy old fellow, filled with gold and silver, and many contingent fees which would bring unto him additional gold. So it came to pass that the fortunate few were permitted to pursue the art of Aesculapius.

learned to know as Jennings. Yea, there was another among the professors, who, not infrequently, but instead of being a friend, was a hindrance under her tutorage, and that was Dr. Humph Dr. Pusch we learned many of the fine points of our pathological professors. Yea, there another as it were, a friend, and that was Dr. an impulsive soul, who inquired much into the knowledge of his students; but got little in return. And as the term drew nigh, the end of the term drew nigh; the professors went forth to counsel among themselves how they should proceed, and they laid down with exams, grievous to be borne, and our trials were great. But "Lo! Jesus appeared to us in a dream saying, "Arise ye, and light a cruise of oil, and send the whole world of sinners, even as I have done on many exams before, and on the morrow go ye to your exams, and write what is on your mind, and I will be with you, and I showed these instructions, and defeated the professors in their purpose. Then we departed to the tents of our fathers and were rested from our labor for a season.

And it came to pass after three months had gone, there returned of the sophomores a goodly number, and these were called juniors. Into the junior were called a good number, and one of particular note, Jones, of the Newport News Journal, who talked much, but said little. But the juniors were not to be called seniors, the profs, seeking how they might wrest good grades from them; but so to avoid, and they cried aloud unto Doctor Potts, saying, "O, my dear sir, saying, 'Hear our cries, O men of learning, let thine ears be attentive to the voice of our supplication, for our lessons are more than we can bear.'"

Let our lessons be fewer, like the hairs on John Harry's head." But still to no avail, and weary of heart, the seniors and juniors, each of the sophomores was thrust a contraption of rubber and steel, a stethoscope by name, and they were to listen to the stethoscope of Dr. Ashton and learn much. And we went forth, listened much, and learned little. And so, basking in our innocence, we passed into our senior year.

Remember now thine Alma Mater in the days of thy senior year, while Muskie is yet president, while professors still vex thee with quizzes and ward rounds while there are many urinalyses and blood counts to make, and while the terror of the pit is ever with you. Yea verily, remember thine Alma Mater, for the evil days will come, when thou shalt say, "Would that I were back at the old Medical College."

Now, may the "bull" of Wingfield the knowledge of Bryce and the wisdom of Gordon be with and abide with you always. Amen.

FINANCIAL PRESCRIPTION

Impressed, after a fifty-year practice, with the financial devastation among his colleagues during the past few years, Dr. J. N. Hall, professor emeritus of the Colorado School of Medicine, says:

"I wish young physicians could learn early in their life-work to put all their savings for the first ten or twenty years into life insurance, with its guarantee of financial security for their families."

THE CROSSRAY

DENTISTRY SENIOR CLASS

Finally seniors—almost at the end of the beginning. Our conception of time was quite different in 1930 from what it is now for it hardly seems possible that four long years should pass away so quickly. That goal for which we worked hard and struggled to obtain is beginning to take a faint outline and before long it will be a reality. It will mean not only the conclusion of one chapter in our lives, so full of pleasant recollections, but also the introduction to a more serious one yet to come.

Each one of us will travel a different road perhaps never to meet again. All that we have learned, all the experience we have gained under the untiring efforts of understanding teachers, all the failures we have met, we carry along as precious possessions.

There is every reason to believe that far in the future there will be a day, less than that—perhaps only a minute—when our thoughts will wander back along the same road to the moment from whence we started; then . . .

HISTORIAN?

NURSING SENIOR CLASS

Here we are, in poem and rhyme
With a bird's-eye-view of some of our time
Way back in '31, yes that is the year
our fun begun
There being forty-eight in our big gang
Fifth floor was hit with quite a bang.

Questions many, answers few
(By golly) who knew what to do—
Just in time to save our yells
Appeared among us, Miss Waddell.
And now, to add to such a sight
Came the big, bad Wolf, increasing our fright,
Tho' whose patience and kindness soon
brought us joy.
Thus sped on, our first four months.
Some stayed and strove—while others
flunked.

In our second year there came a few
Transferred students, from Lakeview.
C. & O. Hospital then closed its school
Bringing more students "as a tool."

SENIOR PHARMACY CLASS

in the field of "mixing medicines." We are not as numerically strong as we were when we started but we hope that through the order of elimination and the survival of the fittest we have raised the percentage qualifications of our class. We have waged campaign against ignorance of the ways of the apothecary. We have fought duels with difficulties and maintained ourselves against failures.

Now we are nearing the end of the journey—we, this is only the first lap of the race, that of obtaining the thing which qualifies us for superintending the health of fellowmen. Diploma! That signifies we have escaped the snarls of "failure"; it is that for which we have worked so diligently; it is that which crowns our fervent efforts; and which repays for the "midnight oil" we have burned; finally, it is nothing more than the door opening unto us the outside world, with its golden opportunities and its adversities—they are both many.

What shall we have then, fellows? Naught but the first command to serve the people, capably, honestly, and justly. It is a challenge to our merits.

To our professors we owe much credit for that we have achieved. To their untiring efforts and patience with us, to their wisdom and understanding, we ascribe much honor and praise. They have implanted in us the seeds of knowledge which we must cultivate and nourish lest they die, and we fall by the wayside.

And for our Alma Mater we shall always cherish a sentiment very dear to us, for it has equipped us with the armament with which to meet and defeat the opposing forces of life.

Associations here have been pleasant, with both faculty and students. And now we hope that these same friendships may endure throughout the years, as we move on to make place for the classes to follow, and to assume our duties in a busy world.

HISTORIAN.

Now we realize (as well as you)
That in nursing, our chosen profession,
We found oodles and oodles to do
And late leave scheming, no discretion.

A dream of white—uniforms—yes,
Gee! a reward for efficiency yet?
My! the gladness of all the rest,
Even heart throbs (we must confess)

Hustling bustling, Oh! Ambition,
Energetic spinsters (ho) we were,
Response of our own volition
Endless times this did occur.

Social affairs—the usual prestige
Hampering youth and early free-dom
Battled within, without, and always
Final results, being far from bore-dom.

Standing united, our battle line—
As strong and staunch and fighting
If doubtful of our group so fine
Tackle the group—or one at a time.

The senior class, true to the precedent left us by all preceding classes, consists of the diminished enrollment of the freshman class of two years plus a few men who came to us last year with advanced standing and chose to join our ranks, in the battle of education, in the conquest for knowledge in the aspiration of obtaining diplomas

THE CROSSRAY

THE ALL-MEDICO BONE TEAM

By Robinson

Here it is ladies and gentlemen, the long awaited report. We think it a perfect collection of the homiest dunces that ever was assembled under one roof. If you have any brains you'll think the same way; however, we don't want to hurt Stantland's feelings, so say the rest to yourself.

In rounding up candidates for CROSSRAY'S All-Medico Bone Team, the committee in charge found itself face to face with an absurdly easy task which it proceeded to make as difficult as possible in the usual traditional manner. The reason for this case of selection is quite evident; there were only about fifteen players, who, without the shadow of a doubt, were outstandingly punks. And this, despite a thorough survey of the entire school from class to class as reported by our mythical advisor. We used the proverbial fine-tooth comb and raked through the dandruff scalp of every clown who ever put up a proposition in presence of his fellow men. Next we compiled an elaborate checking system just to make the thing look as though we had put some work on it, and when the editor called for the report we got this thing together on the spur of the moment and I'll warrant that it will take its place along with the other assinine reports I have my name to as proof that once you've got a name you don't need anything else.

Each member of the CROSSRAY'S All-Medico Bone Team has been the outstanding numbskull of his particular class and school; their names are on every lip for such features as tackling their own men, running interference for the other team, or scoring for the other members. From end-man to all-the-back they displayed an unusual facility for training each other, for acting as steps for their fellow classmates' benefit, and for the comic relief of any players in the school.

Here are the pre-eminent bones,

POOR BILL

His letters came so seldom that I somehow sort o' knowed
That Bill was a trampin' on a mighty rocky road.
But never once imagined he would bow my head in shame,
An' in the dust'd waller his o' daddy's honored name.
He writes from out in Virginia an' the story's mighty short,
I jes can't tell his mother, it'll crush her poor o' heart—
An' so, I reckon parson, you might break the news to her,
Bill's in the Phil Ebbos Sigma, but he doesn't say what fur.

Remember this choice bit of verse—
Mary Rose
Sat on a pin
Mary Rose

Jack
And Mary
Went to Pick
Violets
But
Mary's Little Brother
Come Along
And So
They Picked Violets.

CAUSTIC CRITICISM

Possibly the most stinging bit of dramatic criticism that was ever written was that of the critic who said, after seeing a very poor performance of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," that "the blood-hounds were badly supported."

carefully chosen at random by the experts of CROSSRAY'S Athletic Club Board.

LINEMEN

Grace Jenkins, of Sedelme; Lawrence Fones, who hails from Sedelme; Billum Slaved Sedelme; Smnet Matthews, Sedelme representative; Yohn Saul lent, who comes from Sedelme; Chas. Berblow, claiming Sedelme as a good.

BACKS

Capt. Hedlott, of Sedelme; H. Sing-fell, a senior at Sedelme; Haffee Kurborough, a Sedelme man; Rob Williams, of Pontistry.

ENDS

London Sall, of Pharmacy; Abe Bohem, a youngster from a school called Pharmacy.

SUBSTITUTES

Lorenz Xillar, hailing from Pontistry; Bill Leshow, so journeyed from Sedelme and Lifford Redbaum, another representative of Sedelme.

No, this squad, as selected by the board, is without comment of the proper authorities; it is a remarkable aggregation, and Doc Hauser would turn around in his office if he could see them in action. All have two left feet, they are powerful, scrappy players, full of youthful vitality and a splendid listlessness, and not one of them could play a full game without being noticed. This is CROSSRAY'S selection ladies and gentlemen, picked with the least amount of care, and certain to meet with your disapproval. We hope you like it, don't give a rip whether you do or not, for we've got our money and have already signed next year's contract.

We realize that we have missed a possible candidate here or there, but we presnt the present aggregation as one which no other team would ever want to meet. Forgive our misuses dear reader, and blame us not for them because it was the work of feeding tomato-cocktails on top of straight Meller's food.

THAT PLACE

The cold sweet ether smell,
And four white walls
The sound of a chapel bell
Through the silent halls.

Thank God for God for pain
And its knife-keen smart
After it, peace again,
And a quieter heart.

To see the white body cart,
Duss to and fro in the halls;
Its occupants either whole or part,
May leave tonight on a sudden cart.
Evening . . . and night . . . and dawn
For in all to be
Laughter across the lawn—
And life for me.

—F.

GRACE BEFORE AND AFTER

A gentleman who often entertained his friends at dinner was annoyed by the habit of one of them, who pitched into the bread before grace was said, and determined to cure him of the habit. He said grace, therefore, in the following words:

"Lord for what we are about to receive, and for what our friend Thompson has already received, make us truly thankful."

ONE WAY TO GRADUATE

A QUICK APOLOGY

A bunch of colored men, during a crap game, were introducing to one of their number telling about his girl.

"Oh boy!" said he, "That girl sure do know how to love!" She sure do throw her arms around your neck and kiss!"

"Ah say SHE DO!" exclaimed one of the others.

"What's that nigger?" asked the first speaker, quickly.

"Ah say, DO SHE?" hastily explained the other man.

AN EMBARRASSING QUESTION

A colored boy was arraigned in a Southern city before a judge, on a charge of being incorrigible. The judge was very severe in his condemnation of the way in which the boy had been brought up. The mother of the culprit did not like it, and said:

"Judge, yo' honah mout Ah ask you one question?"

"What is it?" said the judge.
"Judge, was you evah de parent of a perfectly worthless colored child?"

WEATHER

Cloudy and increasing foginess for Medical students. Signs of rain in Dr. Porter's classes. Lots of hot air from Pathology Class and Laboratory. There seems to be a storm blowing up which will terminate about May 15th or 18th. If it doesn't rain, snow, hail, or get cloudy, we assume it will be clear tomorrow.

A GOOD REASON

Two women were discussing a mutual acquaintance.

"She has a very unattractive personality," said one.
"She ought to have," said the other, "everything she has on is charged."

REMINISCENCE

Memory brightens o'er the past,
As when the sun concealed
Behind some cloud that near us hangs,
Shines on a distant field.

—Longfellow.

Perhaps it is well that human nature deplores the present and glorifies the past. It is comforting in idle moments to permit the mind to shine back on distant fields of pleasant experiences,

Things We Didn't Know Until Now—

—that one proud senior medico put on Father Larrick's information sheet—achievements "grades"—we wonder if at M. C. V. or Doctors?

—that Cox asked a patient on Ward A—“Have you had any operations, hospitalization, or miscarriages?”

—that some nurses look for love in a dictionary, others in an ante room!

—that the rarest thing is the actor who doesn't think he's good. “Meet Uncle Sally.”

—that some freshmen work their heads through the year, others work their parents.

—that a toastmaster is a man who bores you so thoroughly that anything that may follow seems a relief.

—that the senior meds took the basketball cup from the pharm. boys, who held it for two consecutive years.

—that Hazan passed D & S with a kodak.

—that a senior med. Irishman is often mistaken for a Jew.

—that the new style in “winter flannels” at Cabaniss Hall are “longies.”

—that the difference between a Sophomore and Senior medical student is the former thinks he knows everything about medicine.

YOU NEVER CAN TELL

A farmer and his son were working in a field when the old man tripped on the stump of a tree, and fell. He got up and said:

“Gosh darn that stump! I wish it was in H—I!”

“Pop, I wouldn't say that,” said the boy. “You might stumble over that stump again some day.”

PHILOSOPHY

He is never alone who is in the company of noble thoughts.

A long face shortens life love and happiness.

If you see good in everybody, nearly everybody will see good in you.

Good luck is sometimes only another name for common sense.

The wealth of mankind is the wisdom they leave.

No man is really beaten until he himself admits it.

If you think you are too small to do big things, do small things in a big way.

Self-reverence, self-knowledge, self-control—these three alone lead life to sovereign power.—Tennyson.

A committee of five usually consists of the man who does the work, three others to pat him on the back, and one who brings in the minority report.

It's the little things that bother us—you can sit on a mountain, but cannot sit on a tack.

The measure of man's real character is what he would do if he would never be found out.

There is only one failure in life possible; and that is not to be true to the best one knows.

Be optimistic—even a busted watch is right twice a day.

Remember This: That very little is needed to make a happy life.—Marcus Aurelius.

“Life is short, and the Art long; the occasion fleeting; experience fallacious, and judgment difficult. The physician must not only be prepared to do what is right himself, but also to make the patient, the attendants, and externals co-operate.”

—Aphorisms, Hippocrates.

Modern girls are fond of nice clothes but they are not entirely wrapped up in them.—Judge.

SENIORS

God pity them that have no knowledge.

God pity them who think they know what they know not—

God bless a thousand times the fools they are—

Who, knowing they know nothing, know a lot!

Dr. G. Paul LaRoque impressed upon the Junior Class the teachings of the Scripture that “it is more blessed to give than receive.” He illustrated this sermon by blood transfusions, saying the donor never suffers while the recipient often dies.

A member of the Junior Medical class said that this past Christmas was one of the best he had ever seen and the ONLY ONE that he can remember having any Gyn left after that festive week.

“Mamma, where from doth elephants come? And don't try to titill me off wiv that gag about the thoracic.”

“I say, Leo, your girl looked quite tempting in that Biblical gown she was wearing last night.”

“What do you mean ‘Biblical gown’?”

“Oh you know. Sort of Lo and Behold.”

Doctor (pulling man from wreckage): “Quick, a glass of brandy. He is unconscious.”

Voice from the Crowd: “Why give him brandy when he is unconscious?”

A specialist is one who has his patients trained to become ill only in his office hours. A general practitioner is likely to be called off the golf course at any time.—Kansas City Star.

The Martyr

Well, there goes Ole Doc Jergen on another hurry call!

Yeah! A doctor has a tough time a-wright. He spends one-third of his life tryin' to learn what to do to folks, one-third tryin' to make 'em believe he knows, an' the rest tryin' to collect enuff to pay for his education. Then when he dies folks sorta blame him for not savin' his own life!

She is troubled with thick-coming fancies!

MACBETH / ACT. V. SCENE III

Macbeth. How does your patient, doctor?

Doctor. Not so sick, my lord,
As she is troubled with thick-coming fancies;
That keep her from her rest.

Macbeth. Cure her of that;
Canst thou not minister to a mind diseas'd;
Pluck from the memory a rooted sorrow;
Raze out the written troubles of the brain;
And with some sweet oblivious antidote
Cleanse the stuff'd bosom of that perilous stuff
Which weights upon the heart?

Doctor. Therein the patient
Must minister to himself.

Macbeth. Throw physic to the dogs, / I'll none of it...

To combat nervous and mental disturbances the modern physician has in SULFOTONE a potent weapon, a remedy unknown to the helpless Medic of Shakespeare's time.

DRASTIC PLAYERS PRESENT

"MEET UNCLE JONAH"

Smashing Comedy Sensation Well Casted With Experience

On Wednesday night Jan. 3rd, at 9:00 o'clock, in the Men's Club, 112 West Franklin, the Medico Players will open the drastic program of the season by presenting the anticipated smashing comedy sensation, by James Martin Habel, "MEET UNCLE JONAH." Other fun will be displayed by selections from the female glee club and round-the-corner quartet with the orchestra adding its touches to the occasion.

This uproarious and charming comedy directed by Willie Windstey, is expected to circle all successes scored by this branch of the Reverend. The lines are snappy, the situations are ludicrous and the climax is sharply electrifying.

An experienced and capable cast will portray the many parts. Father Kar-rick is still remembered for his excellent performance in the 1932 drastic production and his inspiring acting as Sam Blake (Uncle Jonah) will place him more securely in the niche of drastic fame in this production. Others in the cast are: Frank Lappery, as Ber Blake; Miss P. Lilliams as Elaine Durant; Major Sanderson as Bob Durant; H. B. Laag as Snorkins, a happy butler; Mrs. Vane, as Jenny, the Swedish cook; Miss Kieker as Sally Sherwood, who is forced to don man's clothing as Bill Hawkins; eccentric oil magnet from Texas, W. B. Korter as Dr. Jimmy Snodgrass; Miss Links as Miss Muggs; Mr. Panders as Rev. Wright and W. R. Kond as William Hawkins.

The time is early autumn in a small midwestern city. The tender love affair between Ben and Elaine will capture your power of emotion. Don't miss seeing everybody "MEET UNCLE JONAH."

SOME BABY!

Old Doctor Brown, the physician in a little town, was an enthusiastic fisherman. He was summoned from one of his angling expeditions to give his services in a maternity case.

The proud father wanted to weigh the baby, but had no scales in the house. So he borrowed the steelyard with which Doctor Brown weighed his fish.

"Great Scott, doctor!" he exclaimed. "Sixteen pounds!"

VERY SKILFUL PITCHER

At a baseball game there were a young lady and her escort. She had been sitting at game before.

"Isn't that pitcher grand?" she said. "He hits their bats no matter how they hold them!"

"CLASSES, LASSES, ASSES"

A certain professor was popular with his students, but they liked to play jokes on him. One day he chalked up on the blackboard in big letters:

"Professor So-and-so will meet his classes here to-morrow morning."

One of the students read the notice, took the eraser, and rubbed out the "c." the first letter of the word "classes."

The professor happened to return, and saw the alteration. He also got hold of the eraser, and rubbed out the letter "l."

A FIXED DATE

"Missus," said the colored girl, "I'd like to get off on Thursday afternoon, come three weeks from now."

"All right," said the mistress, "but why fix the date so far ahead?"

"I'll be going to mah fiancée's funeral," said the girl.

"The mistress was shocked. "Why, how do you know?" she asked.

"I'll be going to be hung on de day befo," said the girl.

Housewife: "Don't bring me any more of that horrid milk. It's positively blue."

Milkman: "It ain't our fault, lady. It's these long, dull evenings as makes the cows depressed."

The talking movies are going over big in Scotland. Everyone stands out in front of the theatre and listens.—Judge.

An Unusual Outpatient "H" and "P"

The history goes:

Do you have nauseating?
Do you have any trouble headaches, don't you?

Her head, she swims.

How's your nose? Any bleeding no? Have you any weight lost? How much your weight?

Do you have any soreness of mouth?

Have any ringing of ears, don't you?

How's your mouth's? Do you have any soreness of mouth?

You have your teeth alright?

How's your tonsil? Any sore? Any soreness of tonsil?

Have you cough much?

Did you ever feel your jumping your heart? Your trouble is you jump your heart don't you?

Have any fullness of chest? No such thing?

Don't give any better any shortness of breath when you lie down, eh?

How's your passing water all right, don't you?

You have any weakness of your muscles somewhere?

Any weakness of muscles, no such?

Have any small-pox? Dip-ter-ia? You had the measles, don't you? Have scar-let fever?

Husband dead? When he dead? What die for?

Parents dead? What they deade for? sister living? Eh? No any trouble?

What you working? (Occupation).

Do you smoking?

Think the physical goes—

How's you head—alright?

Scall-ranium negative, I guess

Ears O.K., eh?

Eyes accommodation light and distance equally.

Nose O.K.

Open your mouth. Breathe your mouth through.

Teeths most all of them removed except few left.

Sticking out your teeth—I mean tongue.

I think everything in mouths alright.

Breathe deep for me. Chest symmetrical.

Abdominal palpation—I think O.K.—

I didn't hurting you, did I?

Radial vessels—I don't think sclerosed don't you? (They are). How sclerosed?

High pulse pressure—Some pulse pressure, eh? The highest pulse pressure, eh? The highest pulse pressure, I most never seen.

Palpation of neck—No palpation thyroids.

FUNNY BONNERS

The dinner party was one. All had eaten heartily and expensively. In one corner a lone Scotchman strove to make himself inconspicuous when the check arrived. Suddenly, to everyone's complete surprise, he spoke up.

"Just leave that check to me. I'll take care of it." They obeyed.

Item in the next morning's paper—

SCOTCHMAN MURDERS VENTRILOQUIST

QUITE DIFFERENT

The policeman was taking his prisoner to the station house when a gust of wind carried away the prisoner's hat. He asked the policeman to let him run and get it.

"What," said the cop, "let you run after your hat, and get away from me? Not much; you stay here and I'll run for the hat."

The automobile may be putting a few railroad trains out of business—but not when they run on a grade crossing.—Los Angeles Times.

IT WASN'T APPLAUSE

A one-night-stand theatrical company was giving performances in New Jersey, in a section of the state that was famous, or notorious for the size and tremendous appetites of its mosquitoes. One of the actors, after saying his lines, went off the stage, and was greatly pleased to hear loud handclapping "out in front."

"Ah," he said to one of the stage hands, "they evidently like my acting!" "Nix, nix!" said the stage hand. "That's the audience killing mosquitoes."

NO PLACE FOR A LADY

The vaudeville performer who was billed as "The Man with the X-Ray Eyes" was giving the audience some samples of his powers. He took a newspaper, placed over it a thick woven cloth, and then read out the contents to the audience.

In the front row there was an elderly maiden lady. She got up and went out, saying:

"This is no place for a lady with a thin silk dress on."

FAIR ENOUGH

Two students were discussing the matter of spending the evening.

"Let's go to that frat dance," said one.

"No," said the other, "let's go to the movies."

"Say we're forgetting that we've got an exam. on for to-morrow."

"Tell you what let's do. Let's toss up a coin. If it comes heads we'll go to the movies, and if it stands on edge we'll study."

WHERE THE OBJECTION WAS

"Why did you leave your last place?" asked a woman of an applicant for a position as servant girl.

"The master tried to kiss me," said the girl.

"Did you object?"

"No, but the missus did."

They had to give my aunt Tillie other twice for one operation. The first time was for the operation and the second was to stop her from talking about it.—Judge.

The old-fashioned girl used to stay home when she had nothing to wear. But not now!

HOUSE now
the POE
SHRINE

THE stone house on Main Street--the oldest house in Richmond--is now the Poe Shrine, a mecca for tourists and people of literary culture.

Likewise Murphy's Hotel, the oldest hotel in Richmond, has become a mecca for the collegiate---a class who prefer culture and refinement.

The EYES of all Dentists are upon AMERICAN CABINETS

The dental profession knows American Dental Cabinets. They know that no better cabinets are produced in the U. S. A. or abroad, that all improvements for 25 years first appeared on American Cabinets, and that over 75% of all dental cabinets in use are American.

The new American Dental Cabinet No. 140 shown follows the new trend in modern furniture design and color scheme. . . See it at your dealers.

Good Luck and SUCCESS

—in whatever path you may follow after graduation. May we wish you also the companionship and inspiration of a pipe and good tobacco. Successful men prefer a pipe and mild, flavorful tobacco to any other form of smoking. A pipe is a calm, deliberate smoke—the kind of smoke that makes for concentration and clear thinking.

Edgeworth has been a leading favorite among pipe smokers for more than 30 years. No finer quality tobacco is available. It is a blend of only the tenderest leaves of the burley plant, what tobaccoists call the "mildest pipe tobacco that grows." The blend and treatment of these leaves is a priceless Edgeworth secret.

Ask for Edgeworth Ready-Rubbed or Edgeworth in Slice form. All sizes from 15c packet package to pound humidifier tins. Edgeworth is also sold in vacuum packed tins in which the tobacco remains in perfect condition in any climate. LORAN & BRO. Co., Richmond, Va.

AN APPRECIATION

We, the Staff of the twenty-first volume of the X-RAY have worked hard and earnestly, hoping to produce a year book that each student may feel proud of now and in future reminiscences.

To those individuals and groups who have contributed to the building of this year's X-RAY, we take this opportunity to express our thanks and appreciation.

The printing and engravings throughout the book are the result of the efforts and ability of the Benson Printing Company and of the Capitol Engraving Company—both of Nashville, Tenn. Particularly do we appreciate and thank Mr. W. A. Daniel, better known as "Bill," of the Benson Printing Company for his earnest interest and useful suggestions for our annual.

To Apeda Studio we are indebted for the quality and excellent service rendered on the photographs. To Mr. Harry Horton and especially Miss Mary Cullen, who so lightened the Editor's work by her gracious manner and cooperation at every request, we owe more than thanks.

To Max Freydeck and Jonah Larrick we owe much for their numerous sacrifices on short notice to help us at all times, no matter what the request.

For the vast amount of detailed typewritten work we wish to thank the Misses Virginia Staub, Florence McRae, Frances Tomney, Georgia Shrieves, Virginia Miller, Mrs. Thelma Ware, and all the others who contributed to this end.

To Miss Lily Payne and Miss Ammye Herrin are due great praise for their generous allotment of time and energy in making the various drawings in the book which have added so much to its value.

We are genuinely grateful to the Faculty and all the others who have made our task more pleasant through their interest and help and the staff offers this expression of its appreciation, in particular T. S. Buckley, '24, and the many others who contributed to the poetry contained herein.

The persons and firms who have advertised in this X-RAY have proved their support to the college and deserve the patronage and support that we can offer. Their ads. have aided materially in making this volume possible.

And, finally, "as one might say of me, that I have only made here a collection of other people's flowers, having provided nothing of my own but the cord to bind them together"; it is my only hope that "when I am not understood, it shall be concluded that something very useful and profound is underneath."

L'ENVOI

IT is ended. These words toll the death knell of the poignant joys of student days, but a new life begins and some benediction must be bestowed upon the old and thus the old becomes ever new as it unfolds in the drama of memory. Too fresh in our minds are the hours we spent in the acquiring of knowledge which should make our lives fuller and richer. Those hours will never live again except in reminiscence. We speak not of the delights which came to us in the highlights of our college career. They have been extolled to the point of triteness. Rather we would dwell on the everyday incidents of our college life—the little things—those small, insignificant occurrences which we cannot recall in exactly the way they occurred, but which weave and blend themselves into the pattern of memory and thus become one pleasant hazy recollection which lingers in our minds forever. Everyone of us can recall a certain enjoyable dance or a successful athletic victory or some such incident, but to us those things seem not so important. The real memories consist in remembering the conversations with friends, not in particular details but just the fact that good fellowship reigned supreme, the contacts we established, yes, and even the enemies we made, because after all their enmity spurred us on to greater efforts. As time goes on even the memories of reverses we suffered become enshrined on our hearts. If a man can look back and admit with a sincere mind that it was a wonderful experience, then his college career was a success. What matter if he learned little from textbooks? He will have reaped a harvest richer than that, he will be able to say from the bottom of his heart, Would that it could happen again.

And if, when the time comes for us to answer the last call of the Grim Reaper, we have added even one line to the already glorious history of our school, we will pass on to the next life satisfied with our efforts, content in the knowledge that our lives have not been entirely in vain.
